Identifying Himself.

It is said that at certain seasons in Scotland when the fishing is not very brisk the fishermen act as caddies and are easily recognized by their costume, woollen jersey and trousers braced up to the armpits. One of these was asked his name by the gentleman for whom he was carrying and the reply was, "Weel, hereabouts they maistly call me 'Breeks,' but my maiden name 'Broom.'"

An Apt Retort.

"Fools sometimes ask questions that no man can answer," remarked a professor in the course of his lecture.

"Then that explains why so many of us get plucked in our examinations," said the flippant student.—Home Notes.

Spring Cleaning.

DISTRICT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

A big district Sunday school convention, embracing eighteen counties in this section of the State, will be held at Somerville, October 6-8. They are doing things in Somerville and arrangements are being made to provide accommodations for some one thousand delegates from all parts of the district.

This convention will be of an interdenominational character and every Sunday school, regardless of creed, will be represented at this gathering. Many cities are now electing their delegates and have notified Mrs. R. M. McCoy, chairman of the entertainment committee, that they will have a large delegation present. R. L. Dorryberry is chairman of the publicity committee, and he is assisted by J. M. Bowman and A. B. Hillan.

THEATRICAL SEASON FAST APPROACHING

Colonial Theatre Will Open September 25—Good Line of Shows for Bryan This Season.

The season for theatricals is fast approaching and Messrs. Johnson & Lawrence, lessees of the Colonial, will soon have a force of workmen at work touching up, redecorating and putting in more lights, thus making the Colonial more attractive and ready for the opening of the fourth season, which begins September 25.

With a view of giving the theatre-goers in Bryan something good for their money, Mr. T. K. Lawrence of the management while in New York this summer took up the matter of booking personally with the Theatrical Exchange and received flattering promises for the largest and best line of shows Bryan has ever had. In the past three seasons the Colonial has made a good impression on companies that have visited Bryan, and our little city is fast getting a name as an exceptionally good show town, which should assure more and better shows for the future.

The following attractions have been announced by Manager Johnson, the dates for some of which have not yet been fixed but will be announced later:

September 25—"The Smart Set," the best negro show on the road.

October 1—"McFadden's Flats," a well-known comedy.

October 4—"Mary's Lamb," a musical comedy made famous by Richard Carle and a first-class company.

"Sunbonnet Sue," a drama.

"The Soul Kiss," with a big company of stars.

Al. H. Wilson, the golden-voiced tenor.

"Polly of the Circus," presented by the St. Leon family, and is a good one.

"The Missouri Girl," a drama.

"The Little Princess," a musical comedy; two nights' engagement.

"Black Patti" and her company of colored singers, dancers and comedians.

"Mutt and Jeff," funny musical comedy taken from Bud Fisher's celebrated cartoons.

"The Leopard's Spots," first presentation of Thomas Dixon's famous book.

"The Spring Maid," Werba & Luescher's big production, and a number of other top-notch attractions will appear before the season closes.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

829—Peace of Adrianople declared.

839—Don Carlos abandoned Spain and retired with his family to France.

1843—British compelled to withdraw from Moultaim, Northern India, after having besieged the city for several days.

1853—First ground broken in the European and North American Railroad at St. John's.

1854—English and French forces landed in the Crimea.

1884—Antagonism between Clericals and Liberals in Belgium threatened to result in civil war.

1912—Count Nogai and his wife committed suicide as a tribute to the dead Japanese Emperor.

Great funeral ceremonies of the late Mikado in Tokio were attended by Secretary of State Knox.

The Punishment of the Bagno.

In former times the punishment of the bagno (bath), one of the most cruelly cruel inflictions ever devised, was administered in Venice, where the water of the lagoons played a prominent part in its penal system. The punishment was as follows: The prisoner was placed in a vat the sides of which were slightly in excess of the average height of a man. In order to hold in check the rising tide of a supply of water which ran into the vat in a constant stream the criminal was furnished with a scoop with which to bale out the water as fast as it came in. The respite from death by immersion thus obtained was more or less prolonged, according to the powers of endurance possessed by the victim. But imagine the mortal torture, the exhausting and even hideously grotesque efforts, the incessant and pitiless toll by night and day, to stave off the dread moment fast approaching when, overcome by sleep and fatigue, he was unable to struggle any longer against his fate.

Compliments.

Said a certain eminent actor, who at the age of fifty-nine looks no more than thirty-five:

"I try to keep my hair on and my stomach off—that is the true secret of perennial youth."

Then he told one of his famous stories illustrative of the horrors of corpulence.

"A fat man," he said, "could not help laughing one day at the ludicrous appearance of a very bow legged chap, one of those arch looking chaps, you know."

"Though a total stranger to him, the fat man slapped the bow legged chap on the back and said:

"By Jingo, brother, you look as if you'd been riding a barrel."

"The bow legged man smiled and poked his forefinger deep into the fat man's soft, loose stomach."

"And you look as if you'd been swallowing one," he said.—Washington Star.

A Town You Should Reach.

The pleasant town of Get There lies far up a rocky hill, across the sands of Courage and above the swamp of Will. The path that leads to Get There leaves the pleasant thoroughfare and wanders off "mid rocks that grind" and briar vines that tear. And thousands pass along the road that leads to Nowhereville and grumble at the few who climb to Get There on the hill, and others start the thorny path and seek the town to gain, but falter at the swamp of Will and turn them back in pain.

Oh, happy town of Get There, shining in the morning sun, you only show the toiler how yet higher peaks are won!

The truest recompense you give for self denying years is but the promise old, yet new, that conquers doubts and fears. For no one lives at Get There, but with heart and purpose set on better things, from peak to peak they climb up higher yet.—Rural New Yorker.

He Favored Gravity.

A bishop once rose to address the house of lords and began by saying he intended to divide his speech into twelve heads. Lord Durham thereupon got up and begged leave to interpose for a few minutes to tell the house an anecdote.

He was returning home, he said, a few nights before and passed St. Paul's cathedral just before midnight. As he did so there was a drunken man trying to see the time. Just then the clock began to strike the hour and slowly tolled out 12. The drunken man listened, looked hard at the clock and said:

"Hang you, why couldn't you have said all that at once?"

After this narration the bishop condensed his remarks.—London Globe.

Walrus and Bullets.

The most vulnerable spot in which to hit a walrus is the back part of the skull. The forehead, being several inches thick in bone, almost invariably bullets even if solid ones are used in a big rifle, as should always be done. Besides the head, with the exception of the heart, there is hardly a vital spot in these huge brutes' bodies, and bullets may be fired ad libitum into these masses of flesh and blubber without seeming to have much effect.

Domestic Tragedy.

"What's the matter?"

"This morning our furnace was found choked."

"Whom do you suspect?"

"Well, uncle was the sworn enemy of that furnace, and father is known to have made threats."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Fatal Error.

Borrowes—Nellie, hand me my umbrella, will you? It has commenced to rain. Mrs. B.—I lent your umbrella to Mr. Sweetfern last night. Borrowes—What in thunder did you do that for? Didn't you know it was his?—Spare Moments.

The Mystery of Man.

Man is greater than a world—than systems of worlds. There is more mystery in the union of soul with body than in the creation of a universe.—Henry Giles.

The Inevitable.

There is no good in arguing with the inevitable. The only argument available with an east wind is to put on your overcoat.

Making It Right.

First lawyer—Don't you think we are giving our client unnecessary trouble? Second lawyer—Yes, but we can charge him for it!

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

The State of Texas—To the Sheriff or any Constable of Brazos County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Charles L. Stephan, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the Twentieth Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said judicial district, then in a newspaper published in the nearest district to said Twentieth Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the County Court of Brazos County, to be holden at the courthouse thereof, in Bryan, Tex., on the third Monday in October, A. D. 1913, the same being the 20th day of October, A. D. 1913, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 11th day of September, A. D. 1913, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 1343, wherein A. L. Smith is plaintiff, and Charles L. Stephan is defendant, and said petition alleging that the defendant is indebted to plaintiff in the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150.00) for services rendered by plaintiff as clerk in the saloon owned and operated by Charles L. Stephan in block No. 256 in the City of Bryan, in Brazos County, Texas, said sum being due said plaintiff as balance due on salary. Plaintiff further alleges that on the 10th day of September, 1913, he filed said account in the office of the County Clerk of Brazos County, Texas, and that he has a lien on all goods, wares, merchandise, and any and all things used and connected with said business, which lien is now a valid subsisting lien as provided for by Articles 5644 and 5645 of the Revised Statutes of Texas, which property is of the estimated value of $400.00.

Plaintiff prays for judgment for his debt, interest and costs of suit for a foreclosure of his lien, and for such other and further relief as he may be entitled to both in law and in equity.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, W. S. Higgs, Clerk of the County Court of Brazos County.

Given under my hand, and the seal of said court, at office in Bryan, this 12th day of September, A. D. 1913.

(Seal) W. S. HIGGS, Clerk County Court Brazos County.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

"Does my child need glasses?"

There may be nothing wrong with your child's eyes, and again there may be. I can tell you.

If glasses are needed, they should be provided. If not needed, I will tell you so.
